A Message from your President

By Robert Murray, NCBEA President

Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin Business Educators

Are You Fired Up?
Are You Ready to Go?

My hope is that your fall classes are off to a good start and that your summer was an opportunity to relax and recharge.

Fall is convention time for most of the states in the North Central region. I encourage everyone to find out when your state convention is and plan on attending. These conventions offer many opportunities for professional development, learning new techniques, and networking with other business educators. NCBEA's web site (www.ncbea.com) has links to each of the state's web sites which will contain information about the upcoming state conventions. NCBEA, NBEA, and your state organizations can provide tools to advocate for your students and programs. With the ever-increasing demands on our time and the technology that is constantly changing, it's important to take every opportunity for learning new strategies and connecting with other business educators.

The National Business Education Association annual convention will be held March 22 – 26, 2016 at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada. I encourage each of you to attend our national convention. NBEA is always a great time to make new friends and visit with old friends from all over the country. I know you will leave the convention feeling renewed and refreshed with the wonderful ideas, examples, and knowledge you will gain. The convention program, registration information, and membership renewal forms can be found at www.nbea.org

I encourage you to get involved in the leadership at the state level as well as on the regional level. Most states have positions from president, secretary, treasurer, and directors as well as newsletter editors or web masters. In addition, each state has a state membership director who becomes a member of the NCBEA Board of Directors. At the Regional level of NCBEA, there is a president, past-president, president-elect, secretary, treasurer, NCBEA Director to NBEA Executive Board, Newsletter Editor, Webmaster, ISBE Rep, Regional Membership Director and the eight state membership directors. This is an excellent way to serve your fellow business educators and it looks good on a resume.

Membership and participation in our professional organizations is vital. Please invite a non-member colleague to join the state and national business education associations. What the heck, invite two or three to become members. Each member is important.

Hope to see you at the Indiana/NCBEA convention

A Message from your President-Elect

By Matt White, NCBEA President-Elect

“Teamwork Makes the Dream Work”

I am honored to serve as President-Elect for the North Central Business Education Association (NCBEA). This is such an exciting time for business education and I hope to serve the organization and its members well during my time of leadership. For those of you who may not know me, here’s a little biographical history.

Currently, I am a Business Systems Analyst for Jenzabar, Inc. in Loveland, Ohio. Jenzabar, Inc. is a higher education software leader specializing in enterprise software for the higher education marketplace to serve institutions in the areas of admissions, student financial aid and finance, academics and registration, institutional advancement, student services, and higher education administration. Prior to my time at Jenzabar, Inc., I was a business instructor and academic administrator for two career colleges in the Columbus, Ohio and Cincinnati, Ohio areas. I hold both a Master of Arts in Education in Business Education and a Master of Business Administration along with 60+ post-graduate credits in Educational Leadership. My goal is to get back into the college classroom very soon as I truly love enriching the lives of others through learning.

I am a member of several professional organizations and have held officer positions in OBTA—An Association for Business Technology Educators (Ohio Business Teacher’s Association) and have served on multiple committees as well as served on the state conference planning committee for several years. In 2013, I was honored to receive the NCBEA Friend of Business Award and in 2012, I received the Outstanding Contribution to Business Technology Education Award from OBTA—An Association for Business Technology Education. I currently reside in Covington, Kentucky, just about a mile across the Ohio River from Cincinnati, Ohio, with my partner, James. In addition to having a strong passion for learning and teaching, travel is one of my favorite pastimes. My hope is to continue the strong leadership tradition of NCBEA and to continue to cultivate the very best opportunities for the North Central region.

As I think about my charge as President-Elect, a quote from John C. Maxwell comes to mind: “Teamwork Makes the Dream Work.” I feel very strongly that as business educators, we are a team, a family, driven to bring the real world to our students and prepare them for success beyond our classroom doors. Together, through the love of what we do every day and the passion we share in learning and sharing the latest in business and technology, we achieve more and inspire more young minds. Therefore, as a team, we must also join together in professional organizations like NBEA, NCBEA, and our state business education associations to ensure our content is first and foremost in the minds of our students, our parents, our colleagues, our administrators, and our local, state, and national legislators. In doing so, our dream becomes reality.

I hope you will each consider joining NCBEA in Indianapolis, Indiana on November 20-21, 2015 when we join together with the Indiana Business Education Association for the 2015 IBEA/NCBEA Annual Conference. You will find further details about this conference throughout this issue of our newsletter. I hope to see as many of you there as possible! Let’s share in the teamwork necessary to bring our dream of business education to everyone!

Greetings from Minnesota!

During the Spring 2015 Minnesota Business Educators, Inc. (MBEI) Board Meeting, a decision was made to change the name of the state organization to Minnesota Marketing, Business Information, and Technology Educators (MN MBITE). The organization has been working closely with Consultant Bev O'Connor as she guides the board into this new era.

As part of the revitalization of Minnesota's marketing, business information, and technology educators, a value-added approach is being taken during the fall membership drive. Many new features are available to Minnesota's business educators as shown on the newly-updated web site www.mbei-online.org. A classy and informative Bus Ed Bits Newsletter is now being electronically sent to all members monthly. We can now be followed on Twitter Chats as well as FaceBook (MBITE).

The 2015 Fall Conference of MBEI/MN MBITE, make It matter. met October 8 and 9 at the Inn on the Lake in Duluth, Minnesota. The Welcome Reception recognized past-presidents in attendance on Thursday evening, October 8. Conference attendees joined the past-presidents for a horse-drawn carriage ride along the shores of Lake Superior and meet back at the Inn on Lake Superior for hors d'oeuvres and networking. The Friday, October 9, Conference featured Keynote Speaker, Claudia Mescher from Whole Brain Learning. The breakout sessions featured the following topics:

make It matter

- Apps Smashing
- Tech IT Out- IT Exploration Curriculum that Matters
- Financial Literacy Through a Reality Check Activity
- The Necessity of Social Media
- Making Apps with app Inventor 2
- Resources for Creating Stunning Infographics
- Venture – Marketing Plan

MN MBITE is proud to have one of our own, Bob Murray, serving as NCBEA President for 2015-2016. As President Murray wrote in the last newsletter:

My name is Bob Murray and I recently concluded my term as President-Elect of NCBEA. I taught at Littlefork-Big Falls High School for 18 ½ years, Rainy River Community College for 16 ½ years and, even though I retired, currently teach one class a semester for Metropolitan State University, all in Minnesota. I have been an active member in MN MBITE (Minnesota Marketing, Business, Information Technology Educators) (formerly MBEI) for over 40 years, and NBEA/NCBEA for 28 years. In that time, I have had wonderful opportunities to hear fantastic and inspirational speakers, learn new techniques to improve my teaching, travel to a variety of cities across the country, and make many new friends.

As your newly-elected Minnesota representative, I am looking forward to working with President Murray as he carries out his agenda for our organization.

Since 1989 I have had the privilege of teaching in the Office Administration and Technology Department at South Central College - both online classes and face-to-face classes at the Faribault Campus and the North Mankato Campus.

During the Fall 2011 State Conference, I was selected as the recipient of the 2011 Outstanding Contributions to Business Education by a Post-Secondary Business Teacher Award by Minnesota Business Educators, Inc. (MBEI).

As shared in the letter from the MBEI Awards Committee: This award recognizes your role in educating today's college students in business courses and your outstanding support of business education by your peers. You are being recognized for your outstanding commitment to the study and love of business and your dedication to sharing this knowledge and passion with students. MBEI is pleased to present you with this award.

My undergraduate degree was completed in Business Education and English at Moorhead State University (now Minnesota State University, Moorhead). I finished my final year of undergraduate education at Minnesota State University, Mankato, through the Common Market Program. My graduate degree was completed at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks in Business Education and Career and Technical Education.

Over the years my work experience has included working as an administrative assistant for an environmental advocacy group, as an administrative assistant for a community-based health education consortium, as a business teacher based in Waseca for a group of school districts, and as a high school coordinator for a career and technical program in LeSueur. Also, I have had the wonderful opportunity to be a stay-at-home mom. Currently, my husband and I are empty-nesters who look forward to the visits from our sons and their families either at our home in the Twin Cities or our lake home "up north".

Please welcome Diane to the NCBEA board!

Update from Iowa

Greetings from Iowa! This fall we had our 2015 Conference “Picking Up Steam in 2015”. Our conference was October 25-26, 2015, and was full of great breakout sessions, time for collaboration, and learning new ideas to take back to our classrooms. This year we had a wide variety of topics for high school and post-secondary business teachers with something for everyone! Keynote speaker was Adam Carroll, a nationwide leader in financial literacy for high school and college students. His book “Winning the Money Game” is used as a supplement in many high school classrooms. He has participated in 2 TEDx talks, mostly recently in London. We also had two featured speakers this year, Carol VonTersch, Instructional Coach and Business Teacher. She had technology sessions to share. Our second featured speaker was Drew McLellan, ad agency owner and agency consultant. His focus was on marketing tools. Besides all the great sessions planned, attendees also had the opportunity to the ASK Certification tests.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Schmaltz
